Eric Keener

Practice Area: Retirement

Employer: Aon

City, State: Norwalk, Conn.

Eric Keener is a senior partner and chief actuary of Aon's U.S. retirement consulting practice, which he joined in 2000. He leads Aon's National Actuarial Resource Team. Before that, he was an actuary at Aetna for seven years.

Keener recently chaired the Retirement Policy and Design Evaluation Committee (RPADE) and drove the Academy's series of issue briefs on national retirement income policy. He is a member of the Intersector Group, which is made up of representatives from the Academy, the Society of Actuaries, the Casualty Actuarial Society, the Conference of Consulting Actuaries, and the American Society of Enrolled Actuaries, and which meets twice a year with government agency representatives to dialogue with them on regulatory and other issues affecting retirement practice. He has also moderated and participated in many Academy webinars as well as Hill visits and meetings with federal regulators.

The Academy's mission is to serve the public and the U.S. actuarial profession. How will your service on the Board allow you to further the Academy's mission of public policy and professionalism?

I look forward to the opportunity to serve the Academy as a member-selected director, and in that role, to further the Academy's mission to the public and the actuarial profession. While my professional experience has primarily been in the retirement space, I have a strong interest and commitment to broader public policy and professionalism issues. I hope to bring practical perspectives to Board discussions on how the Academy can best offer independent, nonpartisan actuarial input to public policymakers, while helping the public see the important role of the actuarial profession in managing opportunities and risks that impact our everyday lives.
